Definition of Employees Covered by 207(k)

Reference Number: MTAS-967

All personnel employed in police, fire or other public safety agencies do not qualify for the 207(k) exemption. Only certain law enforcement and fire protection employees are covered. Non-covered law enforcement and fire protection "civilian" personnel are covered by the normal 40-hour overtime standard of the act. 29 C.F.R. § 553.200(b).

Fire Protection Employee

Definition of Employees Covered by 207(k) - Fire Protection Employee

To be covered by the 207(k) exemption for fire protection employees, the regulations state that an employee in fire protection activities means "an employee, including firefighter, paramedic, emergency medical technician, rescue worker, ambulance personnel or hazardous material worker, who (29 U.S.C. § 203(y)); (29 C.F.R. § 553.210(a)):

1. Is trained in fire suppression, has the legal authority and responsibility to engage in fire suppression, and is employed by a fire department of a municipality, county, fire district, or state; and
2. Is engaged in the prevention, control, and extinguishment of fires or response to emergency situations where life, property, or the environment is at risk."

These employees are covered "regardless of whether they are part-time or full-time employees or are temporary or casual workers employed for a particular fire or a particular time period.

This definition means that if your city employs firefighters who also run EMS or rescue calls or are on hazardous materials teams, who meet both the tests established by the amendment, then the 20 percent rule no longer applies to any of the functions specifically mentioned in the definition. It is very important that all fire department employees who are eligible to take advantage of the partial exemption from the overtime provisions of the FLSA meet both the tests. No longer will the number of EMS runs or hours spent on rescue missions threaten to jeopardize the 207(k) status of a firefighter. 29 C.F.R. § 553.212(a).

This new definition has cleared up the conflicting court opinions and the different tests that have been applied to different situations. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, EMS workers who do not meet the tests established by this new law are not subject to the 207(k) exemption and are therefore considered 40-hour employees. Just because an employee works for a local government and engages in fire protection, the employee still is not exempt from the overtime provisions. If EMS workers work for the police department, public works or other such units of the city they cannot qualify for the 207(k) partial overtime exemption. It is important to remember that this revision of the law applies to fire departments.

Another area of concern has been the status of volunteer firefighters. According to an August 7, 2006, DOL Wage and Hour opinion letter to the International Association of Fire Chiefs, any fee paid to a volunteer firefighter is considered nominal as long as the fee does not exceed 20 percent of what that public agency would otherwise pay to hire a full-time firefighter. The implementing regulations at 29 C.F.R. § 553.106(e) provide that "a volunteer may be paid only expenses, reasonable benefits or a nominal fee, or any combination thereof, without losing volunteer status. This does not allow a firefighter already on the payroll as a full-time firefighter to respond on his off-duty time as a volunteer. Examples of permissible expenses or benefit payments are described as payment for expenses, such as dry cleaning; an allowance for a requirement, such as a uniform; reimbursement for an out-of-pocket expense, such as transportation; a payment to provide materials, such as supplies; or a payment for benefits, such as participation in group insurance plans.

While the statute and implementing regulations do not define what constitutes a "nominal fee," the regulations provide guidance for determining whether a fee is nominal and permissible. If a fee is not nominal, the individual does not qualify as a volunteer and is considered an employee who is covered by the FLSA minimum wage and overtime provisions. FLSA Regulation 29 C.F.R § 553.106(e) provides that “the factors to consider in making the determination include but are not limited to:

1. The distance traveled and the time or effort required of a volunteer;
2. The availability — limited or unlimited — of a volunteer to provide services; and
3. The basis — as needed or throughout the year — on which a volunteer agrees to perform services.”

“Also not qualifying for the 207(k) exemption are civilian support employees of fire departments, fire districts or forest services, such as dispatchers, alarm operators, mechanics, camp cooks maintenance workers, clerks or stenographers.” 29 C.F.R. § 553.210(b).

Law Enforcement Officer

Reference Number: MTAS-2098

Definition of Employees Covered by 207(k) - Law Enforcement Officer

To be covered by the 207(k) exemption for law enforcement officer, “an employee, regardless of rank or status as trainee, probationary or permanent, must meet all the criteria established by statute.” 29 C.F.R. § 553.211(a):

1. Be a uniformed or plainclothes member of a body of officers and subordinates;
2. Be empowered by status or local ordinance to enforce laws designed to maintain public peace and order, protect life and property from accident or willful injury, and prevent and detect crimes;
3. Have the power to arrest; and
4. Have participated in a special course of instruction or study (or will undergo on-the-job training), which typically includes self-defense, physical training, firearm proficiency, criminal and civil law principles, investigative and law enforcement techniques, community relations, medical aid and ethics.

“Employees who meet the test are considered ‘engaged in law enforcement activities’ regardless of their rank or their status as trainee, probationary, or permanent employees. Law enforcement employees also meet the test regardless of their being assigned to incidental duties, such as equipment maintenance and lecturing.” 29 C.F.R. § 553.211(b).

“Not eligible for the 207(k) exemption are civilian police department employees who engage in support activities such as dispatchers, radio operators, apparatus and equipment maintenance and repair workers, janitors, clerks and stenographers” (Wage and Hour Opinion, August 21, 1987). “The exemption also does not cover employees in correctional institutions who engage in building repair and maintenance, culinary services, teaching, or psychological, medical and paramedical services.” 29 C.F.R. § 553.211(g). Others not meeting the exemption test also include animal control personnel, civilian traffic employees who direct vehicular and pedestrian traffic at specified intersections or other controlling points, civilian parking checkers who patrol assigned areas for the purpose of discovering parking violations and issuing appropriate warnings or appearance notices, and building guards whose primary duty is to protect the lives and property of persons within the limited area of the building. 29 C.F.R. § 553.211(e).

Some public agencies employ public safety officers who serve as both law enforcement and fire protection personnel. The dual assignment will not defeat the 207(k) or 213(b)(20) exemption provided that the activities performed meet the definition of fire protection or law enforcement. The combined duties should make up at least 80 percent of the employee’s duties. FLSA regulation 29 C.F.R. § 553.213(b) provides that “for employees performing both fire protection and law enforcement activities, the applicable standard is the one that applies to the activity in which the employee spends the majority of work time during the work period.”
